

Some Important Information

Thank you for visiting the John L. Hopkins, Attorney at Law website. This website was created so that you could learn more about legal services provided by John L. Hopkins, Attorney at Law. The Virginia State Bar requires a disclaimer similar to this one in attorney websites; therefore, please keep the following key points in mind:

This site is for informational purposes only. None of the information on this website is intended to constitute, nor does it constitute, legal advice. The content of this website is considered advertising material. John L. Hopkins is the attorney responsible for the content.

You should not act or refrain from acting on the basis of any content included in this site without seeking the appropriate legal or other professional advice on the facts and circumstances at issue from an attorney licensed in your state.

John L Hopkins is licensed to practice law only in those jurisdictions and courts appearing on this site. This site is not intended to solicit representation that would constitute the unauthorized practice of law in any jurisdiction.

This website is not intended to create and does not create an attorney-client relationship between you and John L. Hopkins, Attorney at Law. The only way to become a client of John L. Hopkins is through mutual agreement in a formal letter.

Your determination as to whether you need legal services and your choice of a lawyer should not be based solely on website information or advertisements. Some sites listed as hypertext links herein are not under the control of John L. Hopkins and are provided merely as a service. No representation is made concerning the content of these sites not under the control of John L. Hopkins.

The information contained in this website is presented for informational purposes. The results obtained in past cases are not necessarily the results that may be obtained in a case with different facts. Every case is different and fact specific, and the results obtained will be related to the facts and merits of that particular case.

The use of the Internet or the e-mail contact form for communication with the firm or any individual member of the firm does not establish an attorney-client relationship. Confidential or time-sensitive information should not be sent through this website or the e-mail contact forms on this website. Whether you are a new or existing client of the firm, John L. Hopkins cannot represent you on a new matter until your identity is confirmed and verified and the firm determines that there is no conflict of interest and that it is willing and otherwise able to accept the new engagement. Unless and until John L. Hopkins, Attorney at Law, has informed you that he is willing and able to accept your new matter, do not e-mail or send the firm any information or documents that you consider private or confidential. Telephone or in-person initial contact is encouraged. No response will be made to an initial email contact that does not disclose your real name (first and last) and a verifiable telephone number at which you can be reached. Typically, you will get a telephone response to an initial email attempted contact if your identity can be verified.